Council May Ask Special Operating Levy

CITY'S FINANCES GONE; MONTHLY CHECKS HELD UP

Aldermen Discuss Problem At Informal Confab Wednesday Eve

DEFICIT MAY BE $25,000

Three Mills May Be Sought At Election; Electric, Water Debts Mount

Circleville's financial problem reached crucial proportions Thursday when it was announced that the city has no more money with which to operate its government. Pay checks for city police and firemen were withheld Thursday because of lack of money in the city's general operating fund.

At an informal meeting of City Council Wednesday night, councilmen estimated that if the city is to continue to operate during 1941 on its present budget basis, with its estimated receipts and expenditures for the coming year, it will have accumulated a deficit of $25,000 during 1941.

Only possible solution to the problem, councilmen decided, was to place a three mill tax levy on the ballot in the coming election. A three mill levy on the city's estimated $8,384,000 worth of taxable property would bring in approximately $25,112, officials believe, or a sufficient sum to operate the city for the coming year.

Other Debts Stand

Even this amount would not be sufficient to handle debts already contracted by the city. At the present time, Circleville owes Pickaway County $7,500 for its share of the relief burden. By the first of the year the sum will have mounted to nearly $9,000, it was pointed out. Auditor Forrest Short already has stated that the county relief fund shows a deficit, and will continue to do so even with July's state matching money. County commissioners, who in past emergencies have transferred money from the county's general fund to its relief fund, have indicated that it would be unsafe to make any more such appropriations, and hinted that they may be forced to turn Circleville's relief burden back to the city.

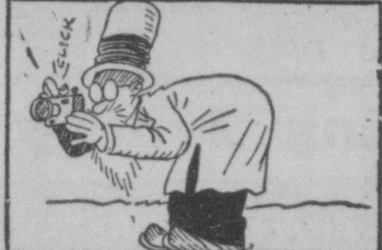

Unpaid city bills for street lighting have swelled to $3,500 with no funds with which to pay them, and water bills, which are yet small, threaten to mount unless sufficient funds can be provided for their payment.

N. AND W. TRAIN SEVEN HOURS OFF SCHEDULE

The 6:25 a. m. westbound Norfolk and Western passenger train was scheduled to reach Circleville at 2:50 p. m. Thursday, seven hours and twenty-five minutes behind schedule.

The flooded New River between Roanoke and Bluefield caused the delay.

Fuehrer Fails To Reach London On Designated Day

By H. R. Knickerbocker
LONDON, August 15 — Believe it or not, Britain was downright disappointed today—"Hitler Day"—when the Fuehrer failed to appear.

August 15 was the day, according to accepted legend, when Hitler was to have led his legions in a triumphal march into Nazi-occupied London.

This nation is so keyed up to meet an invasion that it will blight its hopes if the Germans don't give the British a chance to "get at them."

Mockingly four soldiers of the empire, one Englishman, one Australian, one Canadian and one New Zealander, each holding a Tommy gun, stood under a flag-decked awning marked:

"Welcome to our distinguished visitor, Hitler."

This was the way a great British cartoonist, David Low, conceived of "Hitler Day."

But serious military circles are now weighing the possibility that Chancellor Hitler is not going to invade Britain until possibly next year and after he has completed his blockade and starved the island of food, gasoline and military supplies from America.

Hitler's traditional tactic of inciting fear and confusion among his enemies before he attacks has not succeeded in England, but it must be admitted that he has excited plenty of bewilderment.

His reiterated gory threats of chastisement that he intended to inflict on Britain, with full details such as his promise to treat British newspapermen as common criminals, finally has convinced most people that he surely was going to try to invade this summer.

His failure so far has aroused here what may prove to be premature contempt. To professional observers, the best explanation of his delay is that he as well as everybody else was taken by surprise at the speed of the French collapse.

The task of spreading his army over the vast areas he now occupies and of reorganizing his air force is believed to have conspired to slow up his assault on Britain while the weather is good.

This coming week end is regarded almost as the last suitable moment for an invasion. Britons of means will take their Saturday to Monday holiday as usual.

BASIC PAY FOR ARMY BOOSTED

Foes Of Conscription Say Voluntary Enlistments To Show Increase

WASHINGTON, August 15 — Admitting they are working against tremendous odds, administration leaders said today four senators may decide the issue over military conscription.

They were listed as LaFollette (P) Wis., Shipstead (FL) Minn., Lundeen (FL) Minn., and Norris (I) Neb. Their stand against conscription was said to be tipping the balance in favor of the Maloney substitute to defer conscription until January 1, or until it is proven the army cannot get sufficient men through voluntary enlistments.

This was the situation today despite the fact that administration leaders accepted and allowed to pass by a voice vote the Lee amendment to increase the base enlistment pay of the army and marine corps from $21 to $30 per month.

Opponents of the measure, which would make 12,000,000 men between 21 and 31 liable to a year's military training, expressed confidence the pay increase will be (Continued on Page Four)

CHURCH LEADER ASKS THAT U. S. ASSIST BRITISH

CINCINNATI, August 15—The immediate sale of this country's unused destroyers to Britain as "insurance" against future aggression was urged today by Bishop Henry W. Hobson of the Southern Ohio Episcopal Diocese. Bishop Hobson called on the press to "make the situation known more emphatically to the people of America." He insisted that, unless we face the situation honestly, "there is little but tragedy ahead."

"Our neglect to respond to Britain's plea for destroyers means that we are blind fools," the bishop declared. "The fact is, no amount of money voted now for defense can save this country from Hitler domination if the English navy is destroyed or surrendered."

"The United States is sitting by with 125 destroyers we do not need, while the greatest defense we have against future war with the totalitarian states, the British navy, is being destroyed."

"Practically we're fools, and morally we're criminals," Bishop Hobson recommended the sale of 100 destroyers to England, to be manned by British crews, as "the best insurance against war we could possibly buy."

LEGION NAMES TWO

Circleville legionnaires Wednesday night selected Ed Ebert and William Betts, Jr. as delegates to the coming American Legion state convention in Toledo. James Cook and James Shea were selected as alternates.

Greek Cruiser, Bedecked For Festival, Torpedoed

Thirty-One Casualties Reported As Submarine Fires Three Missiles; Paralyzed Pilgrims In Danger; Norwegian Attacked; British Rescue 300 Men

ATHENS, August 15—The 2,115 ton Greek cruiser Helle was torpedoed and sunk today by an unidentified submarine off the Greek island of Tinos.

A brief official announcement said there were 31 casualties. The cruiser was sunk while lying at anchor. The Helle had been dressed in flags on the occasion of the Greek Orthodox Festival of the Assumption.

The Helle was built in 1912 for China and purchased two years later by the Greek government.

The Helle sank about an hour after being struck. Three torpedoes were fired. Two of them missed, but struck a quay filled with sick and paralyzed pilgrims awaiting conveyance by ship to a nearby shrine. One of them died from shock and several were bruised.

The attacking submarine remained submerged and escaped without its identity or nationality being discovered. Premier John Metaxas immediately informed King George of the tragedy.

NEW YORK, August 15—Seven hundred miles out in the Atlantic, the Norwegian freighter Thermopylae today flashed "submarine attack!" signal.

Mackay radio at 9:45 a. m. (Circleville time) reported interception of the Thermopylae's distress broadcast, adding that the call had "just been sent out." The Thermopylae, a 6,600-ton craft built in Denmark, gave her position as 38.25 N, 66.30 W, approximately 700 miles due east of New York.

LONDON, August 15—With an estimated loss of 30 or 40 members of its crew, the armed British merchant cruiser Transylvania, a former popular cruise liner of 16,923 tons, was torpedoed and sunk in the Atlantic Ocean by a U-boat, the admiralty announced today.

The admiralty said ships and trawlers rushed to the scene and rescued more than 300 officers and men, the major part of the crew.

Survivors were landed at a west coast port. They said the attack occurred in the night while a rough sea was running and that the vessel sank some hours after being hit.

As the weather grew worse, they said, the crew took to lifeboats. One lifeboat capsized, accounting for most of the casualties. Captain F. N. Miles, commander of the vessel, was among those rescued.

MORGAN WARNS RESIDENTS TO HAVE ALLEYS CLEARED

Service Director Leonard Morgan issued a warning Thursday to residents of Circleville who throw trash in alleys and do not have it removed.

"We are setting August 21 as a deadline for all persons who have put trash in alleys to get it removed. If we find any trash in the city's alleys after that date we will prosecute under a city ordinance," Morgan declared.

PUMPKIN SHOW TO INCLUDE SIX MAJOR PARADES

Kingston and Stoutsville schools will be included in this year's beauty parade, scheduled for Wednesday night, when a "Miss Pumpkin Show" will be selected. The band contest, in which 12 of the best class A bands in the state will participate, is being arranged for Thursday night, with a parade of the bands through the downtown area.

WASHINGTON, August 15 — Some of the most important conversations ever to take place with Great Britain in 150 years have been transpiring behind the scenes recently. Guardsmen Learning How To Use Modern Methods

CAMP MCCOY, Wis., August 15—National Guardsmen engaged in the Second Army maneuvers were learning today how to fight with modern, streamlined methods.

A demonstration of the speed with which armies in the field can be moved was given the guardsmen by the 5th Division, regular army, in an operation which covered miles of hilly country northwest of Camp McCoy.

The 5th division is one of the army's streamlined units—it has three infantry regiments instead of four, organized into combat teams. In the demonstration, the division showed how it leaves bivouac, advances to a predetermined defensive position, and then digs in, all in fast time.

Every effort was made to keep the maneuver as realistic as possible. Weapons were camouflaged with branches, trucks were hidden in the woods, and black vents were pitched under trees for concealment from imaginary enemy air scouts.

It was learned that 56,808 regulars, National Guardsmen and reserve officers are on hand for the maneuvers, which will last three weeks. They represent seven states—Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky and West Virginia. This total will be swelled this week end when additional guard units, including 202nd coast artillery and 108th observation squadrons, arrive.

Nazis Hammer at British Bases

FULL force of German bombing attacks has been loosed at British naval bases throughout the British Isles. Target of one of the heaviest attacks was the vital naval base at Portsmouth, on England's southeast coast. The most important naval and air bases in the isles are shown in the above map. Air fields have not been heavily bombed, probably because the German high command plans to use them for the landing of its own blitzkrieg troops.

HUNDREDS LOSE TWO ARMY MEN HOMES IN FLOOD CRASH VICTIMS

Dozen Known Dead, Other Victims Sought In Southern States

ASHEVILLE, August 15—With at least a dozen persons known dead and an undetermined number missing, relief workers today pushed through debris covered roads in an effort to reach isolated communities in the flooded areas of the Carolinas, Tennessee and Virginia.

Hundreds were homeless and the property damage stood at a staggering figure as residents of the stricken towns surveyed the damage caused by torrential rains swept inland by the hurricane which Sunday struck the South Carolina and Georgia coast.

Heaviest loss of life was centered near the northern end of the Tennessee-North Carolina line, where a broken dam sent a 27-foot wall of water roaring down an already swollen Watauga River, through several towns and communities.

At least eight persons perished along the course of the stream, and authorities are fearful that the final toll will be between 15 and 20.

Four persons died in Elizabethtown, Tenn., where the wall of water swept away or badly damaged 25 homes, put the electric power plant out of commission, and flooded two rayon mills which furnish employment to approximately 5,000 persons.

The same flooded river accounted for the deaths of two small children near Banner Elk, N. C., and officers received a report the bodies of two other children were seen floating down the stream. Spectators failed in (Continued on Page Four)

DUKE IN SECRET JOURNEY TO TAKE OVER NEW POST

HAMILTON, Bermuda, August 15—In utmost secrecy, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor have left Bermuda and are on their way to Nassau, Bahamas, where the duke will take up his appointment as governor, the Ministry of Information announced today.

No details were released regarding the time of their departure or their mode of travel.

Plane Falls Into Field Near Rye, N. Y.; Both Dead Easterners

NEW YORK, August 15—Two U. S. army flyers met instant death today when their plane plummeted to earth in a field near the Boston post road at suburban Rye.

Flames enveloped the craft immediately after the crash. Police and firemen sped to the scene and an ambulance was dispatched from a nearby hospital.

Victims of the crash were Lieut. Henry Clayton Thompson, 25, of Westbury, N. Y., a reserve officer attached to the Fifth Bombardment Squadron, Mitchell Field, and Private E. E. Spencer, 24, of Wellsboro, Pa., also attached to Mitchell Field.

CUDAHY RETURNS TO GOOD GRACES OF HIS BOSSES

WASHINGTON, August 15—A "love feast" luncheon was held today by Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles and Ambassador John Cudahy. It marked the end of recriminations over the envoy's London press interview, which the State Department declared a "closed incident."

Meanwhile, blame for the department's censure of the ambassador to Belgium was placed on the British press, which Cudahy assured Welles had "misquoted" him.

Cudahy, his record clear, his continuance as a diplomat assured and his feelings assuaged by friendly interviews with President Roosevelt and Welles, planned to spend a few days in New York and then depart for his Wisconsin home for a vacation.

Thus a climax was reached in the week-long argument as to whether Cudahy, in his London interview, cast aspersions on the behavior of American soldiers and sought to influence administration policy on whether or not to seek a breach in the British blockade through which food might be sent to Belgium.

Cudahy was summoned here by the President to explain his reported remarks. He was quoted as saying the German invaders of Belgium behaved better than American soldiers in the World War.

BRITAIN CLAIMS MANY BOMBERS SENT TO GROUND

KENT AREA OBJECTIVE

Finding Of Parachutes Puts Isle Residents In Search Of Saboteurs

LONDON, August 15—Planes of the Royal Air Force have carried out an extensive aerial bombardment of the German-held port of Boulogne in France, it was learned officially today.

The attack was believed to have been most successful, but the air ministry declined comment until full reports have been received and studied. A communique may be issued shortly.

BERLIN, August 15 — Stuka dive-bombers in mass formations penetrated Britain's anti-aircraft defenses today and attacked important military objectives in Kent County, the German high command announced.

Accompanied by Messerschmitt destroyer planes, the Stukas attacked land targets and especially balloon barrages in the Dover area, it was said.

"British attempts to bar the German planes by anti-aircraft salvos were fruitless," the announcement declared.

LONDON, August 15—Incurring losses unofficially reported as high as 25, German raiders attacked the southeast coast of England in waves today, meeting with spirited opposition by fast-flying British Spitfires and Hurricanes.

The Germans sent over two "air barrages" of forty planes each. Official reports said that at least five Nazi ships fell to British guns, adding to the 31 recorded losses of yesterday, but watchers along the coast reported another score of German victims.

Hundreds in Combat

Hundreds of planes again participated in the day's fighting. Britain lost seven fighting planes yesterday, the air ministry said, although the pilots of two of them parachuted to safety. No casualties were reported in last night's sporadic raids.

One German plane, a Heinkel-113, was said to have been brought down in northwestern England. Its crew of five was captured, two of them suffering from wounds.

The second German bomber was reported shot down early this morning over northeastern Scotland. Two members of its crew were killed.

One wave of enemy planes was reported over southwestern England, where a major air battle was reported yesterday, and still other German machines were reported soaring over Wales.

At the same time the British air ministry announced that 26 German planes were shot down during yesterday's battles, while only four British pilots were lost.

Shortly after midnight German planes flew over a northeastern English coastal town and crossed the southeast and northeast coasts of Scotland. In northeastern England searchlights were active, but there were no reports of anti-aircraft fire or bombing damage.

Latest reports indicated that at least 50 German parachutes were (Continued on Page Four)

LONDON, August 15.—"Well organized" rioting is reported to have broken out in several French cities, particularly Toulouse and Lyons, the London Daily Mail reported today in a dispatch from the French-Spanish frontier.

(In Berlin official quarters said they had no knowledge of any riots in French cities.)

The Daily Mail produced a colorful account of the alleged riots, stating that demobilized French soldiers, refugees and groups of unemployed marched on various prefectures, brandishing pikes and clubs and yelling:

"Work for all! Down with the bankers! Throw the Germans out! Peace at home!"

Most of the mobs dispersed quietly, said the report, but street fighting broke out at Toulouse and Lyons, where 18 persons were reported killed.

The Daily Mail said police finally threatened to fire on the crowds, which then broke up.

There is a suspicion, said the dispatch, that the Germans inspired the riots from Paris since the disorders assumed an identical form in each city. Furthermore, it was pointed out, the Germans control French communications.

YOUTHS NABBED FOR THEFTS AT SCENE OF FIRE

Two Columbus youths, Gabel Lightie and Bill Seymour, 2005 McKinley Avenue, were fined $100 and costs in Justice of Peace B. T. Hedges court and committed to County Jail, Wednesday, after Deputy Sheriff Bryan Custer arrested them for stealing numerous farm articles from the William Near farm in Darby Township.

Deputy Custer, who found the stolen goods in a Columbus junk yard, said Lightie and Seymour had taken it from the Near barn yard where it had been piled after a recent fire had destroyed the barn and most of the farm machinery it contained. The stolen goods, valued at $25, consisted of a tractor draw-bar, pulleys, an iron wheel, irons from a truck bed, chains, single tree clips, box bed irons, gate and door hinges and a hay fork.

TEXAS FLYERS LOSE WAY, LAND IN SOUTHERN FIELD

Two Texans who lost their way when ferrying a new 3-place Cub Cruiser airplane from Lock Haven, Pa., to their home in the south landed on H. M. Crites property, south of Circleville, Wednesday evening during the rain. The flyers were enroute to Columbus, but became lost in the dark clouds and high wind that swept much of central Ohio.

After learning the direction to Columbus, the flyers took off again. Their plane was a 75-horsepower craft.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

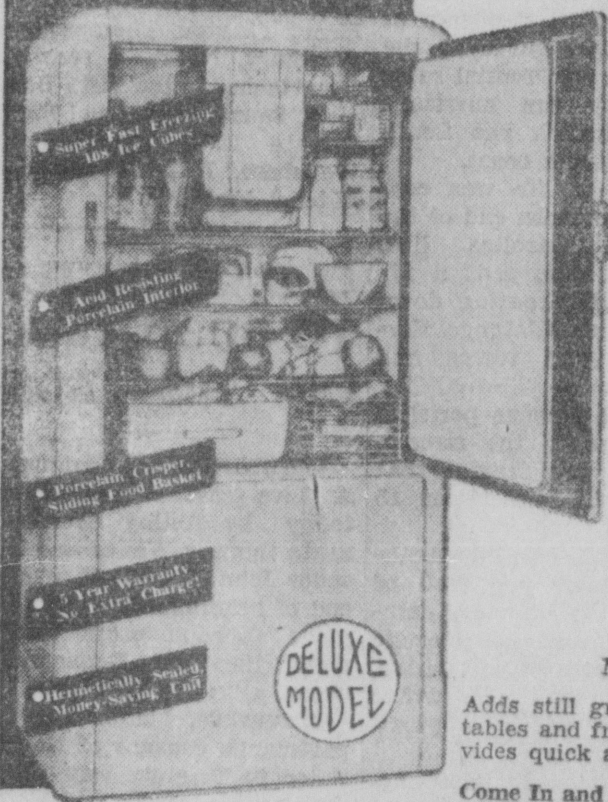

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 2 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of sleep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

GRAND JURY IN SESSION

Accusations False, Claim
Fredric March, Other
Screen Notables

HOLLYWOOD, August 15—Accused by a witness before the Los Angeles County Grand Jury as being members of the Communist party or sympathetic to the party, numerous Hollywood film notables today indignantly denied the accusations.

Most of them issued flat denials of the testimony given by John L. Leech, former member of the party, in the grand jury's investigation of alleged communistic activities in the film colony.

Leech, whose testimony became a matter of public record in order that attorneys for persons he named could be advised of his charges, said these luminaries made heavy financial donations to the Communist party and served to finance 65 percent of the Communist activities in southern California for a two-year period.

Leech told the grand jurors the following had been members of the party from 1931 to 1936:

Herbert Biberman, director; Jean Muir, actress; Fredric March, Lionel Stander, J. Edward Bromberg, Francis Lederer, James Cagney and Humphrey Bogart, actors.

Clifford Odets, Marion Spitzer and Frank Scully, writers.

Names by Leech as heavy financial contributors to the party were Franchot Tone, actor; Frank Davis, producer and Davis's wife, Tell Slesinger.

Frank Tuttle, technical director; Samuel Ornitz, writer, and his wife, Sadie, Lawrence Cole, writer, Beryl La Cava, estranged wife of Gregory La Cava, and Buddy Schulberg, son of Producer B. P. Schulberg, were named by Leech as active in the advancement of the Communist cause.

Colony Angered

But angry were the comments of those he named.

"Speaking for myself," said Fredric March, "Leech is an unemitted liar. None of the charges of this man is true in the slightest degree. I do not even know him, but I'll welcome the opportunity to meet Mr. Leech face to face and call him a liar."

"My record and conscience as an American and as a man are clear," Humphrey Bogart, a World War veteran, declared.

"I dare the men who are attempting this investigation to call me to the stand. I want to face him myself and not by a proxy to whom I am only a name. I have never contributed money to a political organization of any form."

Through her press agent, Miss Muir declared Leech's charges were "wholly false."

William Cagney, brother of James Cagney, declared the actor, "was not a communist, never was and never will be a Communist."

"Neither," he added, "is he in sympathy with the Communists in any way, he has never contributed to them and any donations he has given have been to the Community Chest, the Red Cross and other deserving groups."

Sam Ornitz, writer, and his wife both termed Leech "an unmitigated

Defense Plan Calls For New Midwestern Plants

WASHINGTON, August 15—The government's secret defense plans contemplate construction of a vast network of vital industrial plants in the Midwest.

Sen. Miller (D) Ark., disclosed today senators from eleven mid-western states were allowed to see the plans already drafted, and they were "highly satisfactory." Refusing to name specific cities in which the new units would be located, he said the factories would fall into the following categories:

Cotton purification plants; picric acid factories; power production units, machinery and shell plants; shell loading, and airplane factories.

Work on these plants will get under way in five or six months, Miller said. He added that the government planned also to experiment to determine feasibility of turning out domestically such products as manganese and a few others vital to defense production and now largely imported.

Accompanying Miller in the conference with planning chiefs were senators from Arkansas, Tennessee, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and the Dakotas. This same group called early in the week to ask Defense Production Chief William S. Knudsen to provide for defense industrial expansion in the Midwest.

"This program," said Miller, "entails the actual construction of ed liar," and both denied ever seeing him.

Stander Raps Fitts
Lionel Stander, also a grand jury witness, declared Leech's accusations were false and blamed District Attorney Buron Fitts for "using big names for his own benefit."

Attempts to reach others named by Leech were unsuccessful.

Leech in his testimony asserted he knew those he named were in league with the Communists because they "personally paid their dues or made donations to me."

LIGHT RAINFALL DOES LITTLE TO RELIEVE CROPS

A .1 inch rain late Wednesday pulled temperatures to 67 degrees and brought slight relief to Pickaway County crops, suffering from more than a month of drought.

Agricultural officials stated that the rain would help soy bean fields and meadows, but would be of little value to many corn fields, already severely damaged by the dry weather. Farmers in some sections of the county, as well as in neighboring counties, are using their corn crops for ensilage, it was reported.

Fayette County officials, Thursday, reported that although Wednesday's shower had brought slight relief from the drought, damage, estimated at thousands of dollars, had already been done to crops.

Weather experts predicted generally fair and warmer weather for Thursday and Friday.

By International News Service
Central and Southern Ohio enjoyed cooler weather today as the result of much-needed rain that fell on parched earth, possibly in time to save some farm crops, especially corn.

Thundershowers broke a six week's drouth in the Columbus area and sent temperatures tumbling 10 degrees to bring relief to suffering residents. High reading yesterday was 89 while the low was 73.

At Cincinnati a half-hour thunderstorm brought the first appreciable rain in seven weeks and temporary relief from smothering heat.

However, weather experts held out little hope that cool breezes that followed the storm would remain for long. The predictions were fair with little change in temperature.

At Hilliards, near Columbus, hundreds of persons attending the Franklin County fair were driven to cover by the rainfall.

WIDOW OF LOUIS PALM DIES IN COLUMBUS HOME

Mrs. Lilly D. Palm, widow of Louis L. Palm and a native of Circleville, died Wednesday at the home of her son, James V. Palm, 1322 Fairview Avenue, Columbus.

Mrs. Palm was a daughter of James and Lucy Duncan Walters, both natives of this city.

Surviving in addition to the son are a sister, Mrs. Maud McClain, and one brother, Tom Walters, both of Columbus.

Friends may call at the A. A. Shroyer Funeral Home, 895 South High Street, Columbus, where funeral services will be conducted Friday at 10 a. m. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery, Circleville. The Rev. Harry Ford will officiate.

NO EXCUSE FOR SPEEDING

NEWTON, Mass.—There is no excuse for speeding in Newton, Mo., who fall back on the old excuse that "my speedometer must be wrong," are told that the town has laid out a special three-mile course on Washington Street by which motorists may check speed of their vehicles.

SENATOR WOULD REFUSE FUNDS TO SOME SCHOOLS

NELSONVILLE, August 15—The withholding of funds from state-supported colleges and universities which "allow" un-American and subversive activities was advocated today by State Sen. H. T. Phillips.

"All state financial support should be withheld until such abuses are corrected," Dr. Phillips declared.

War veterans' organizations and newspapers at Athens recently charged that "Communist forces are allowed by the administration to run rampant" on the campus of Ohio University.

PASSENGERS ON CLIPPER CROSS TRAGEDY SCENE

NEW YORK, August 15—Passengers aboard the Yankee Clipper due today at LaGuardia Field were given a first hand view of the perils of war southeast of Horta, the Azores, where a huge oil slick, indicating a sunken ship, was sighted.

The clipper turned off its course at the request of the Portuguese government to search for a vessel reported to have been torpedoed in that vicinity last Tuesday morning. There was no sign of survivors on rafts or in lifeboats, merely the huge oil slick, about a half mile wide and five miles long.

FIRE HITS FRATERNITY

COLUMBUS, August 15—A two-alarm fire, which struck the Acacia Fraternity House near the Ohio State University campus early today, was extinguished by firemen after it caused extensive damage to the second floor of the structure. Cause of the blaze could not be determined as the building was empty at the time, authorities reported. The fraternity house is being remodeled during the summer recess.

BRITISH EXPERTS SAY FRAGMENTS FROM BIG GUNS

LONDON, August 15—Authorized military experts today admitted that shell fragments had been found in a southeast coast town, confirming reports that Germany has made at least occasional use of "big Berthas" to attack this country from French bases along the English Channel.

Ballistics experts who examined fragments of missiles which wrecked or damaged a number of houses in an unidentified town reported:

"There are definite indications that this was a shell which arrived with forward velocity from the sea."

(Editor's Note: While no official announcement has been made, it is generally understood that Dover was the town which was shelled. Dover lies only 20 miles from Calais, where the Germans are known to have erected big gun emplacements.)

U. S. MARINES TO TAKE OVER AREA IN SETTLEMENT

SHANGHAI, August 15—A heated, four-hour conference among United States, British, Italian and Japanese military authorities in Shanghai wound up today with a compromise agreement whereby American marines will take charge of the important central district of the British defense sector in the International Settlement.

A dispute over control of the British area arose between the United States marines and Japanese officials several days ago when it was announced that British troops in Shanghai will sail Monday for duty elsewhere.

Under the compromise achieved today, it was reported, Japanese authorities will assume control over the western area of the British sector, an unimportant residential region.

The district taken over by the Americans includes the vital waterfront area, thereby preserving this much, at least, of the "open door" policy in China.

CONVICT IN GETAWAY

LONDON, August 15—The first escape from a work gang at the London Prison Farm since he took charge in September of last year was reported today by Supt. William F. Amrine. George Rush, 38, who entered the Penitentiary in 1935 to serve a one to 15 year sentence for breaking and entering and larceny, broke away from a gang at work at the farm gravel pit and fled through a cornfield. Authorities in Athens County and at Zanesville, where the fugitive has relatives, were notified of the escape.

found in the Midlands and in Scotland. A widespread man-hunt began to find any German "paratroopers" who might have used them to land on British soil and begin a sabotage campaign against British defenses.

May Be Dummies

Some officials were inclined to believe, however, that raiding planes may have dropped the parachutes—empty—on British soil in an effort to scare the British and force police and home guards to waste time and energy hunting for the parachutists who could not be found.

Nevertheless, the British took no chances. Churchills tolled warnings that German parachutists were suspected to have landed.

Seventeen parachutes were found near one town in the Midlands. Ten were picked up in northeast Scotland, 17 in southwest Scotland and nine in still another Scottish district.

As the search for hidden parachutists continued—and proved fruitless—the British press dubbed the phantom German spy troops "paraghosts."

Military authorities speculated that the parachutes may have been used by German airmen bailing out from damaged planes and now trying to evade capture. They discounted the idea that Germany had sent over "suicide" parachutists to carry on sabotage.

It was understood that several German airmen who leaped from their disabled planes already have surrendered to police in various districts and that others are being "drummed up."

These sources contended that Britain's home guard organization renders "parachutists' movements almost impossible."

CONTRACT BRIDGE

HE HAS THE SAME HAND

IF A PLAYER, who once passed his chance to open the bidding, later makes a strong jump bid, double or redouble of some kind, it should not mislead his partner into believing he has a powerful holding. He still has the same hand which he passed, and nothing he ever does can make that hand as strong as one which would be shown by an original bid, though it may have certain distributional values and be somewhat near to an initial bid hand generally.

Charles H. May will be in Elwood, Indiana, Saturday to hear Wendell L. Willkie, Republican nominee for the presidency, officially be informed of his nomination. Mr. May will leave Friday.

Jean Doris Hill, 147½ West Main Street, entered Berger Hospital Wednesday for medical treatment. She suffered a broken arm recently and the arm has not healed as expected.

Joseph Anderson, Jackson Township, one of the heirs to the 47-acre Anderson farm in Jackson Township, has purchased the farm for $1,575. The purchase price was two-thirds of the appraised value.

The meeting of the Willing Workers' Class of the Pontius United Brethren Church announced for Friday at the home of Mrs. M. M. Bowman, near Stoutsville, has been postponed one week.

Miss Matilda Mantle of Derby, cousin of Miss Laura Mantle of Circleville, died Wednesday at her home. The funeral will be Saturday at 1:30 p. m. in Derby.

The Clarence L. Corkwell farm in Monroe Township will be the scene Saturday of a picnic outing of the Ohio Ayrshire Breeders' Association. Several speakers will participate.

Miss Julia Dexter, Route 2, Dayton, was employed by the Walnut Township board of education Wednesday night as a high school vocational home economics teacher. Miss Dexter received her training at Ohio State University.

J. Joseph Rigney of the Chillicothe Rotary Club gave Circleville Rotarians a report of the 31st Rotary International convention he attended in June at Havana, Cuba, when he spoke at the regular Rotary Club luncheon meeting Thursday noon in the American Hotel Hurricane. Forty members and guests were present.

Jacob Glick of Circleville Township is seriously ill at his home suffering an attack of gall bladder trouble. Mr. Glick, who celebrated his eighty-seventh birthday anniversary recently, is widely known in Pickaway County.

Eighty-five were present Wednesday when the employees of the Pickaway Dairy Cooperative Association, their families and the board of directors picnicked at Gold Cliff Park, Baseball, swimming and roller skating were enjoyed in addition to the excellent basket dinner.

HAMPP DIVORCE ASKED

Charging her husband with neglect of duty, Mabel T. Hampp, of Ashville, filed a divorce petition Thursday in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court. In the petition she asks for temporary alimony and restoration of her maiden name of Mabel Thomas. She and the defendant, Robert Hampp, were married August 14, 1935.

He has shown at least about three or three and a half high card tricks, in justifying his bid of 4-Hearts. North argued that South should have let the 4-Clubs come up to him to decide whether to bid any more against it, which he would not have done.

South was wrong on two counts North's hand could not possibly have been that big, as he passed originally. South should not have gone on except with strength above the minimum shown by his opening, which he surely did not possess. When North, following his redouble, bid diamonds over 2-Clubs, he showed he had hoped the opponents would bid that suit so he could double it. When he later showed the heart fit, it was only secondary. Sacrificing away 500 points when the vulnerable opponents had not bid a game was too much.

Sen. Minton (D) Ind., assistant to Majority Leader Barkley, was one of the new dealers who admitted publicly the Maloney amendment threatens to wreck the conscription bill.

"The situation is very doubtful," Minton said, "with the balance right now in favor of the Maloney amendment."

Barkley notified his colleagues that the Maloney substitute must be defeated.

Nazis, Willkie Watched

Some Senators, Republicans and Democrats, believe the outcome of Hitler's blitzkrieg against England will have a strong influence on the conscription issue. They also asserted that should Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee, support conscription in his acceptance speech Saturday, it will aid the administration forces.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D) Wyo., proposed that a limit of 1,000,000 be placed on the number of men who could be called out under peace time training. He said while the War Department does not expect to call more than 800,000 "the language of the bill is such, however, as to place no limitation of any kind on the number of men who might be called, and so lends itself to misunderstanding."

Sen. Clark (D) Mo., offered an amendment to consolidate the War and Navy Departments, and their aviation divisions, into a single "defense bureau." He said this would promote "greater cooperation and efficiency."

Sen. Downey (D) Calif., was ready to take the floor when the senate convened for the sixth day of debate. He declined to vote for or against the bill in the military affairs committee.

stroyers. British Destroyers used in conveying food and supply ships to the United Kingdom have taken a terrific Nazi beating from both air and sea, so that 100 of the pre-war destroyers in the possession of the United States, would, according to high naval authorities, make all the difference between British defeat and victory.

To this end, conversations between representatives of the two governments have taken this course:

If the United States will supply Britain with destroyers and small motor-torpedo boats, then the British will transfer to the United States any island possessions it desires any place in the Western Hemisphere, and will also permit the United States the use of land, air and naval bases on any territory which it controls.

In addition to this, the British have told American plenipotentiaries that the United States can write its own ticket. In other words, if this country wants other concessions from Britain in return for naval support, it can have them.

These terms, transmitted to members of the Roosevelt Cabinet and to high Roosevelt advisers, have been received most favorably. This includes the Republican members of the Cabinet Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Knox. In fact, the opinion inside the Administration has been unanimous.

However, the President himself, has been loathe to move.

Privately he has been one of the strongest believers in helping Great Britain, but in the last few weeks he seems to have stood absolutely still.

WASHINGTON, August 15.—Persistent reports emanating from Republican sources that President Roosevelt is planning a sensational war statement involving proposed sale of World War destroyers to the British coincidental with the acceptance speech Saturday of Wendell Willkie today drew this observation from White House Secretary Stephen T. Early: "I don't think we want to blanket Mr. Willkie's speech."

Four others—all Negroes—were listed as the flood toll in South Carolina.

Asheville, meanwhile, had only a limited water supply while work crews attempted to repair the mains which were washed out by the floods. The mains were expected to be placed today.

More than a dozen industrial plants in North Wilkesboro were flooded as the Yadkin River went on a rampage. Two of the plants burned while water surrounded them. The town was without lights and several hundred persons were homeless. City officials estimated damage there at $2,000,000.

Hundreds of highway and railroad bridges were swept away, while many highways were blocked by landslides.

Elkin, in northeastern part of the state, was partially inundated, or was Linville, a summer resort. The flood waters reached across the state line into southern Virginia, and scores of homes reportedly were flooded at Galax.

While the flood crest has not yet been reached at several points in the flooded areas, early relief was indicated by the weather forecasts. Tennessee faces generally fair weather, and the rain is about over in the flood areas of the Carolinas, according to the latest weather forecasts.

PETTENGILL

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

CONSCRIPT ARMIES

Must the world become a munitions dump and a once Christian civilization a concentration camp? No one knows and until the fog lifts we must keep a lot of powder dry.

Still the question remains—is there a safe middle road between inadequate preparedness and the conscript armies that have been the plaything of kings and the curse of mankind? Must we in America have a "Cossack on the back of every peasant?"

Just now we are on one of our periodical sprees. They come in different forms—barnyard golf, tree sitting, marathon dancing, Florida real estate, food fads, mission furniture, "manifest destiny" and "make the world safe for democracy." Of the last two one took us to Asia and the other to Europe.

Conscription is now "the thing."

The herd mind is on a stampede and if anyone says, "come, let us reason together," Senator Pepper, self admitted patriot, sprains his larynx. This bill, the principle of PETTENGILL which Mr. Roosevelt has advocated for twenty years, was written by some very enthusiastic gentleman. In its original form the bill allowed the conscript soldier $5 a month, or $40 for eight months. If he spent nothing for cigarettes or postage on letters to mother, he would have at the end a little more than if he had been in prison. Some people are very generous in the sacrifices they ask others to make.

Contrast the conscripted soldier with the CCC boys. The latter gets $30 a month, serve only six months, are not under military discipline and take no risk of stopping a bullet. These young boys get six times as much pay as the writers of the bill allowed the conscript. The CCC boys get more even than the $21 a month paid the private in our regular army. One would think that before resorting to peacetime conscription for the first time in our history these different kinds of service would at least be placed on an equality of pay.

Then, too, it might help if the able bodied sons of prominent and well paid fathers in Washington, D. C. and elsewhere were to volunteer as buck privates. "But the wind listeth and there is no sound." Large religious groups are becoming aroused over the spread of the spirit of militarism. Organized labor is asking where it will lead. John Lewis and Philip Murray say that if you are going to conscript men you should also conscript money. This is fundamentally just. The difficulty is that the conscription of all men and all property in peacetime is the exact equivalent of totalitarianism.

It is easy to say that patriotism is not something to be purchased. I agree. And in wartime no complaint in principle could be made against the conscript serving without any pay whatever, providing everybody else works for a bare subsistence also,—the machinist, farmer, manufacturer and the payrollers in government, Congressmen and Presidents included.

But peacetime conscription is another story. Why should the forced conscription give up three years of his life in the service of the nation for less pay than a fireman or policeman gets in the service of his town or city? And if that pay were allowed would we need conscription? Moreover, with the present regular army, national guard and reserves totaling 750,000 men many of whom could be trained only with broomsticks, why must conscription go into effect one month before election?

Conscript armies have been the curse of the ages. They are the enemy of free institutions. They are to be endured only as a matter of bitter necessity when everything else fails and then only for the period and to the extent actually needed. Whether in the barracks of Czar, Kaiser, or Hitler, peacetime conscription teaches man to "soldier." It makes men docile. It conditions them for the spiritual goose-step and the worship of Caesar. If this is not so then our forefathers learned nothing in centuries of tyranny.

America must be invulnerable from attack but it can be attacked only from across wide oceans. Give us then a Navy and an air arm sufficient to defend our homeland against every hazard. Give us also a small mechanized volunteer Army, magnificently equipped and well paid. Then we may escape the blight of militarism and imperialism in the land which was once the beacon of the oppressed.

HARRY SHORT'S COLT SECOND IN RACING CLASSIC

Remus Draws Down $8,791 As Spencer Scott Finishes Ahead At Goshen

Harry Short and his associates Thursday were dividing a pot of $8,791 that they received Wednesday when Remus, the big colt handled by the Circleville native, ran second to Spencer Scott in America's biggest harness race, the Hambletonian, at Goshen, N. Y. Spencer Scott was driven by Fred Egan, a veteran of the harness events who won his first feature after being in the money 10 out of 12 times in previous races. The effort was the thirteenth for Egan.

Short, brother of County Auditor Forrest Short, drove Remus beautifully, track observers said, and pressed Spencer Scott in both heats. The winner was ahead by half a length in the first heat and by a length in the second heat. Time in the first heat was 2:02 and in the second 2:03.

Kuno, a Boston horse, handled by Driver Whitney, was third in both heats, with Queen Victoria fourth, Princess Pert fifth and Milestone sixth. Earl's Boody Guy, Steward and Sister Hanover also running.

$23,677 to Winner
Spencer Scott won the lion's share of the purse, $23,677.

Starting from the barrier used for the first time in the event, Spencer Scott set his own pace and beat off the challenge of the bigger Remus.

The milling crowd which bet $42,370 in the mutuels on the Hambletonian, installed Spencer Scott favorite at approximately 3 to 2, the payoff on him when he won the first heat being $5.10.

The start was good for all except Princess Pert which was on a break. Queen Victoria and Remus raced like a team around the first turn, the big colt showing in front as they passed the quarter with Spencer Scott moving up on the outside and taking the lead before reaching the half.

From that point it was a stern chase with Remus making his final bid midway of the home stretch. Both under desperate drives, they came to the finish line with Spencer Scott a half length to the good, Kuno a length back and Queen Victoria fourth.

Egan took the favorite to the front at the start of the second round and he held command to the end with Remus and Kuno bidding desperately for the lead, but again the courageous brown colt met the challenge with a burst of speed which swept him a length to the good at the finish line in 2:03.

Red Birds Whip Kaseys Again to Reduce Lead

COLUMBUS, August 15—Today, for the first time since very early in the season, Kansas City's strangle hold on first place in the American Association was somewhat relaxed, and the possibility loomed that there may be a three-cornered fight for the coveted pennant.

The Blues pulled out of Columbus for Toledo after dropping the second game of an abbreviated series, 5 to 4, to run their loss streak to six games—their longest of the season. A ninth inning single by Jack Sturdy drove in the winning Red Bird run in the nip-and-tuck battle. Each squad garnered nine hits.

The win enabled the Red Birds to climb within 11 games of the leaders, and Minneapolis climbed to within eight games by thrashing Indianapolis, 16 to 8. Five Indian hurlers failed to halt the 15-hit parade. Pete Sivess hit a homer with the bases loaded in the third for the winners.

St. Paul hung on to its first division berth by a slim half-game despite a 6 to 1 loss to fifth-place Louisville. Sixth-place Toledo staged a three-run rally in the ninth to snatch a 6 to 5 decision from the last-place Milwaukee Millers and take the rubber game of a three-game series.

HARRY SHORT'S COLT SECOND IN RACING CLASSIC

Remus Draws Down $8,791 As Spencer Scott Finishes Ahead At Goshen

Harry Short and his associates Thursday were dividing a pot of $8,791 that they received Wednesday when Remus, the big colt handled by the Circleville native, ran second to Spencer Scott in America's biggest harness race, the Hambletonian, at Goshen, N. Y. Spencer Scott was driven by Fred Egan, a veteran of the harness events who won his first feature after being in the money 10 out of 12 times in previous races. The effort was the thirteenth for Egan.

Short, brother of County Auditor Forrest Short, drove Remus beautifully, track observers said, and pressed Spencer Scott in both heats. The winner was ahead by half a length in the first heat and by a length in the second heat. Time in the first heat was 2:02 and in the second 2:03.

Kuno, a Bostwick horse, handled by Driver Whitney, was third in both heats, with Queen Victoria fourth, Princess Pert fifth and Milestone sixth. Earl's Boody Guy, Steward and Sister Hanover also running.

$23,677 to Winner

Spencer Scott won the lion's share of the purse, $23,677. Starting from the barrier used for the first time in the event, Spencer Scott set his own pace and beat off the challenge of the bigger Remus.

The milling crowd which bet $42,370 in the mutuels on the Hambletonian, installed Spencer Scott favorite at approximately 3 to 2, the payoff on him when he won the first heat being $5.10.

The start was good for all except Princess Pert which was on a break. Queen Victoria and Remus raced like a team around the first turn, the big colt showing in front as they passed the quarter with Spencer Scott moving up on the outside and taking the lead before reaching the half.

From that point it was a stern chase with Remus making his final bid midway of the home stretch. Both under desperate drives, they came to the finish line with Spencer Scott a half length to the good, Kuno a length back and Queen Victoria fourth. Egan took the favorite to the front at the start of the second round and he held command to the end with Remus and Kuno bidding desperately for the lead, but again the courageous brown colt met the challenge with a burst of speed which swept him a length to the good at the finish line in 2:03.

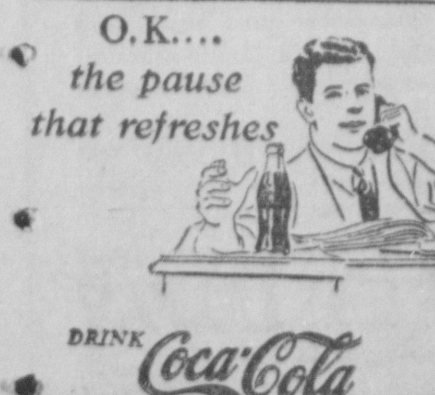

DERRINGER TO TOIL FOR REDS; GAME POSTPONED

CHICAGO, August 15 — With his league-leading Cincinnati Reds rained out of the first of a three-game series with the fifth-place Chicago Cubs, Manager Deacon McKee planned to send Big Paul Derringer against the Cubs this afternoon, opposing Clyde Passeau.

Whitney Moore, who had been scheduled to hurl yesterday's tilt, probably will be saved for the St. Louis Series starting Saturday. The Tuscarawas County hurler blanked the Cards with four hits the last time he went against them.

Milkman Jim Turner and Bucky Walters were slated to hurl for the Reds in tomorrow's double-header, made necessary by yesterday's postponement.

THE DUTY OF ANOTHER

THE plight of the conquered nations now under the Nazi heel tears the heart of every decent-souled American. We have so much food and so much comfort, and so has our friendly neighbor, Canada! Millions of bushels of wheat we don't know what to do with! The situation makes every American eager to help.

But it is well to be a little wise before the event, rather than very sorry afterwards. It is well to be clear.

These hungry folk are not the victims of some natural disaster—some earthquake, drouth, "Act of God." They are the victims of the German regime. Their hunger has been deliberately brought about as a weapon in a war for power. It is being deliberately used to force the Americas to neutralize the British blockade, which at the present moment seems the only hope of the world.

What happens if America does not feed these people? Some will starve. Yes. But many will demand with no uncertain voice that Germany give them food. Germany has plenty to give—it's the food she stole. Germany is surrounded by disaffected peoples sweating under the Nazi yoke. She cannot hold out forever against their demands.

The tighter the British blockade can be drawn, the sooner the war can end in the only right way, the sooner all war suffering be wiped out.

There is a bit of ancient Hindu scripture which fits the case. "Duty alone will lead one to the goal. Be diligent, therefore, in thine own duty. For the duty of another is full of danger."

Feeding the conquered nations is the plain duty of Germany. It is not our duty. Not quite yet!

He will have authority to suppress espionage, draft private citizens for farming or other services necessary for the public interest, control industry and wages and working hours and shipping and transportation and public services and prices and rents. He can prohibit lockouts and strikes.

All these powers may be necessary to keep the Islands a going concern and out of Japanese hands. But they require a

Up earlier than usual and decided that I must be on the way to recovery from vacation. Almost always takes me two or three days to rest up after a two weeks "rest." Scanned the morning prints, turned thumbs down on the idea of shaving, downed my morning coffee and headed for the post. Found all of Uncle Sam's nephews busy, but just no trade, so did gather my quota of mail and headed for the plant.

Noted the hot sun and the threat of storm that I hoped would come, hoped so strongly that I even had my car washed to bring rain the quicker. Was shocked to note signs of such drought damage on my return home. Saw corn that is now beyond help and some fields that undoubtedly would be saved by moisture.

Called at the Coffee Club and immediately was presented with a bill for $2.30, same being tendered by Frank Lynch who contended that he matched for me each day I was on my vacation and that I had been an unwitting host practically every morning. Did ask for time to give thought to the situation, but the plea was tossed out and I told Frank to sue. Joe Adkins, the barrister, called on me later in the day with a paper he wished me to sign, but before his arrival I learned he had been retained as the Coffee Club's lawyer, so I refused my signature. Bill Cady is all smiles because he thinks the trial will be in mayor's court, but I am asking for a change of venue, the farther away the better. KENNEDY IS WARNED

WASHINGTON—There was a double purpose behind that official spanking of John Cudahy, U. S. Ambassador to Nazi-occupied Belgium.

One was to repudiate the millionaire Milwaukeean's extra-ordinary appeasement interview. The other was a pointed warning to Joseph P. Kennedy, U. S. Ambassador to Britain, not to indulge in such talk.

It has been no secret to the State Department for some time that the wealthy Ambassador from Boston is distinctly appeasement minded.

On close terms with the ill-fated Chamberlain government, Kennedy has evinced greater concern privately over the possible political after-effects of the war than repelling the Nazi-Fascist aggressors. He viewed the inclusion of British Labor leaders in the Churchill cabinet with alarm.

The Nazi air attacks seem to weigh heavily on Kennedy and of late he has talked considerably about returning to the United States and resigning. He also is displaying sharp disapproval of the President's uncompromising anti-Axis policy as well as other Administration matters.

In inner State Department circles Kennedy is tied up directly with Cudahy's outburst. The press cables did not report the fact, but the State Department learned that Cudahy conferred with Kennedy before sounding off to the newsmen.

But although the conscription bill still is far from enactment, certain business advisers already are tipping off businessmen on how they can dodge serving their country in uniform.

One of these outfits is the Research Institute of America, Inc., with a Madison Ave., N. Y., address and a large clientele. In its August 3 "Business and Legislative Report," edited by Leo M. Cherne, the Institute gives these helpful suggestions on "How you can protect your key workers against conscriptions":

1. First make sure the business is essential to war production. This can be done by converting a part of it to such activity.

2. Prepare to prove the necessity of the business, the importance of its key workers and the reasons why they can't be replaced.

3. Place the men desired to be kept out of the draft in key positions.

DIET AND HEALTH

No Cure For Hay Fever

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"DOCTOR, what would you do if you had hay fever?" That question is perfectly fair and puts it up squarely to the medical adviser.

To start with psychology, try to understand the nature of hay fever. Medical science is quite definite on that point: There is no reason for false ideas. It is due to the effect of the pollen grains from certain plants, thrown in the air in great profusion in the conjunctival sac of the eye, the mucous membrane of the nose, and the bronchial muscles of certain sensitized individuals.

Second, it is important to face the fact of experience, that hay fever is never cured. That saves a lot of time and expense. It serves to avoid such treatments as those, for instance, which aim at the destruction of the mucous membrane of the nose. Diet, exercise, physical condition and the kind of life you lead have nothing to do with the case. You might as well try to stop an invading army by going on a vegetable diet.

The best treatment is to take a vacation during the season and go to a resort where there is freedom—the mountains, the seashore, the northern Great Lake country, Canada. For some, of course, this advice is impractical.

The most comfortable and effective thing for the stay-at-home is an air conditioned room with a window filter. For an average bedroom there are many such window filters on the market which are cheap and practical. Your furniture dealer ought to know about them. If you can equip both your bedroom and your day working quarters this way, well and good. If only the bedroom at least that affords great relief.

About "Shots"

Whether I would take "shots" of the offending pollen or not depends again on circumstances. They take time and they are by no means inexpensive. Furthermore they are quite uncertain.

Unquestionably in certain cases they do prevent. No expert, however, can explain on a theoretical basis why they should work. If hay fever is a form of allergy and if allergy is fundamentally anaphylaxis, which is what the experts claim, then every dose of vaccine no matter how small should make the victim worse. That is the fundamental phenomena of anaphylaxis, as explained in an earlier article this week.

The claim is made in general that 80 per cent of cases get complete or partial relief. But these claims are mostly from the region east of the Alleghenies, or west of the Rockies. For the Mississippi Valley where hay fever pollenation is thick and abundant I should be inclined to believe the percentage of relief was closer to 25 per cent.

The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO

LINDA AVERY didn't faint in the crowded room where she waited with so many witnesses while Mina Nevins and Sue Ackerman were questioned. By sheer will power she pulled herself back from the pit in which she was sinking.

Robert continued his long distance conversation to California, talking in that low tone which a man uses when there are others near, and his words are intended for one girl only.

He did not come near Linda as the testimony went on, and he excused himself early. She watched him go, wanting to run after him, not daring to.

Much could have happened in these last few hours. Undoubtedly he had pledged his troth to Billie Anne. Oh, life's timing sometimes was so very bad! If only, before Rob had told her he loved her, she had realized that she did not love Ronald, but Rob himself, she would not be suffering tonight.

Through the window of the room she saw the moon, high and white and small tonight. Life went on, forever and forever. And she must walk with it.

But surely, surely, there would be a way to tell Robert what she wanted him to know. Cautiously she realized that other members of the prosecutor's office had arrived and that Mina Nevins was being questioned and cross-questioned.

Mina's voice recalled her to the scene. "Yes," she said in full, rich tones, "I fired the shots. I borrowed the gun from Miss Markley. Well, not exactly borrowed it. I did it without her consent. You found it, I see. I'm glad, because it was an expensive affair. And now, wouldn't you like my fingerprints?"

She held out her white hands, and the emeralds gleamed with mad lights in the dingy room.

There was something of reverence in the way the officials looked at Mina. Linda noted. They were remembering her for scenes in other years. They were letting a strong wind blow back the waters and watching her in old and galling roles. Because she had contributed much of beauty once upon a time they could find it in their hearts to be gentle now.

"After all, she is mentally sick, or none of this would have happened," someone murmured, and Linda nodded in mute agreement. She reminded herself that if Mina had not held a revolver in her hand for Rob she would not have followed him so relentlessly that he had sought refuge in her apartment one night in spring. Mina had brought Rob to her.

And now he was gone. The room tilted again, just a little, but she clutched the arms of her chair and did not move.

She wondered where Rob had gone when he had excused himself. Then some words of the state caught her attention. "Miss Nevins, haven't you been seen in the company lately of a Mr. Terry Adams? That doesn't coincide with your professed attachment to another."

Mina laughed lightly. "Terry? He's a sweet nit-wit! I never want to see him. He was a tool—only it didn't work. But, please, let's get on with those prints."

They took Mina away then, and Linda watched, half sobbing. No, Terry hadn't worked as a tool. But Mina had tried to marry him when she felt the web closing in on her. She had been afraid that she would be caught on Terry's wedding night.

"Why did you decide to turn state's evidence, Miss Ackerman?" the tones of the chief prosecutor asked behind Mina's retreating form. "You didn't come as soon as you sensed that there might have been a masquerade on hand that night. Therefore, it wasn't the fact that Miss Nevins shot your sister that brought you. What did, then?"

Sue Ackerman's eyes were old and tired and defeated. "I might have come when I discovered that I unwittingly had helped Mina kill Clarabell. I might have—but I didn't. For this is a hard world and Mina had promised to pay me well for that night. She had been getting radio money. Then she weaved. She wouldn't give me anything. And—I came."

Linda looked at the woman in horror. Could life become so cheerless and dreadful that a woman could forget honor, decency, kindness? Had Sue ever been young and eager and hopeful?

She must not think of that now. She must go home. And she must go straight to Robert's apartment and tell him that she was wiser now. She must forget her pride. If he had made a vow to Billie Anne that he could not break, she could raise her head higher, catch a bugle on the wind and walk on. But first she must know.

"May we run you down to your house?" Ronald was asking her, and she nodded. A subway would be stuffy on this summer night and she had spent so much money on taxicabs and clothes lately that her bank balance was close to the zero mark.

In the car Sarah said, "Linda, you noticed my handkerchief, didn't you? And you noticed it was like the one on exhibit in the case? The brand really is mine. Mina must have helped herself. But I didn't mention the matter because there are hundreds and thousands of people in town who use the same kind. Does that clear up everything? Once again, I beg your pardon."

That is the fundamental phenomena of anaphylaxis, as explained in an earlier article this week.

The claim is made in general that 80 per cent of cases get complete or partial relief. But these claims are mostly from the region east of the Alleghenies, or west of the Rockies. For the Mississippi Valley there hay fever pollenation is thick and abundant I should be inclined to believe the percentage of relief was closer to 25 per cent.

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO

LINDA AVERY didn't faint in the crowded room when she waited with so many witnesses while Mina Nevins and Sue Ackerman were questioned. By sheer will power she pulled herself back from the pit in which she was sinking.

Robert continued his long distance conversation to California, talking in that low tone which a man uses when there are others near, and his words are intended for one girl only.

He did not come near Linda as the testimony went on, and he excused himself early. She watched him go, wanting to run after him, not daring to.

Much could have happened in these last few hours. Undoubtedly he had pledged his troth to Billie Anne. Oh, life's timing sometimes was so very bad! If only, before Rob had told her he loved her, she had realized that she did not love Ronald, but Rob himself, she would not be suffering tonight.

Through the window of the room she saw the moon, high and white and small tonight. Life went on forever and forever. And she must walk with it.

But surely, surely, there would be a way to tell Robert what she wanted him to know. Only dimly she realized that other members of the prosecution staff had arrived and that Mina Nevins was being questioned and cross-questioned.

Mina's voice recalled her to the scene. "Yes," she said in full, rich tones, "I fired the shots. I borrowed the gun from Miss Markley. Well, not exactly borrowed it. I did it with her consent. You found it, I see. I'm glad, because it was an expensive affair. And now, wouldn't you like my fingerprints?"

She held out her white hands, and the emeralds gleamed with mad lights in the dingy room.

There was something of reverence in the way the officials looked at Mina. Linda noted, they were remembering her for scenes in other years. They were letting a strong wind blow back the waters and watching her in old and gallant roles. Because she had contributed much of beauty once upon a time they could find it in their hearts to be gentle now.

"After all, she is mentally sick, or none of this would have happened," someone murmured, and Linda nodded in mute agreement.

She reminded herself that if Mina had not held a hopeless infatuation for Rob she would not have followed him so relentlessly that he had sought refuge in her apartment one night in spring. Mina had brought Rob to her.

And now he was gone. The room tilted again, just a little, but she clutched the arms of her chair and did not move.

She wondered where Rob had gone when he had excused himself. Some words of this state caught her attention. "Miss Nevins, haven't you been seen in the company lately of a Mr. Terry Adams? That doesn't coincide with your professed attachment to another."

Mina laughed lightly. "Terry? He's a sweet nit-wit! I never wanted him. He was a tool—only it didn't work. But, please, let's get on with those prints."

They took Mina away then, and Linda watched, half sobbing. No, Terry hadn't worked as a tool. But Mina had tried to marry him when she felt the web closing in on her. She had been afraid that she would be caught on Terry's wedding night.

"Why did you decide to turn state's evidence, Miss Ackerman?" the tones of the chief prosecutor asked behind Mina's retreating form. "You didn't come as soon as you sensed that there might have been a masquerade on hand that night. Therefore, it wasn't the fact that Miss Nevins shot your sister that brought you. What did, then?"

Sue Ackerman's eyes were old and tired and defeated. "I might have come when I discovered that I unwittingly had helped Mina kill Clarabell. I might have—but I didn't. For this is a hard world and Mina had promised to pay me well for that night. She had been getting radio money. Then she welched. She wouldn't give me anything. And—I came."

Linda looked at the woman in horror. Could life become so cheerless and dreadful that a woman could forget honor, decency, kindness? Had Sue ever been young and eager and hopeful?

She must not think of that now. She must go home. And she must go straight to Robert's apartment and tell him that she was wiser now. She must forget her pride. If he had made a vow to Billie Anne that he could not break, she could raise her head higher, catch a bugle on the wind and walk on.

But first she must know. "May we run you down to your house?" Ronald was asking her, and she nodded. A subway would be stuffy on this summer night and she had spent so much money on taxicabs and clothes lately that her bank balance was close to the zero mark.

In the car Sarah said, "Linda, you noticed my handkerchief, didn't you? And you noticed it was like one on exhibit in the case? The brand really is mine. Mina must have helped herself. But I didn't mention the matter because there are hundreds and thousands of people in town who use the same kind. Does that clear up everything? Once again, I beg your pardon."

Dinner Guests Furnish Toothbrushes In Berlin

BERLIN, August 15—In Berlin
it is now the fashion, if not the necessity, to bring a toothbrush along when calling on friends for the evening. The more thorough type of guest brings an extra blanket, and perhaps a pair of pajamas.

For in the blackout nights there is the greatest difficulty in finding one's way home, and it is next to impossible to obtain transportation in the later hours.

I had an unusual experience recently after I returned from America to Germany via Tokio.
This occurred when I had dinner with some men friends at a downtown restaurant.

They had their toothbrushes with them. I did not know that when we dined long in Otto Horcher's restaurant on the Unter den Linden. I had been away so many months I had forgotten the blackout restrictions.

The Hour Became Late
While we enjoyed the lobster and the delicious Rhine wine and ate roast veal and sipped an old Burgundy, and Otto topped things off with champagne after the crepes Suzette, I gave no thought to my escorts' plight.

Of course, they took me home to the Charlottenburg, and then I perceived there was no means for them to get clear across the city to their own habitats, and it is next to impossible to prowl through the darkened streets for such a distance, flashlights being permitted only to spot an address or find a path around a street obstruction.

What else could I do but ask the men to stay?

I had no accommodations for them, so one can imagine the amazement of my maid next morning upon finding two gentlemen asleep in my drawing-room.

But such is social life in Berlin these days, or nights rather.

Berlin Not Gloomy
There is still much hilarity, much chatting and evening cards, and still places for most excellent foods. Nor is there any let-up in the gatherings of the women-folk who adore to talk to someone just returned from the United States.

German, in fact all Continental women, are avidly interested in "what America thinks of us."

I learned soon I was not the first to start this sort of hospitality in Berlin. It is the regular social procedure now. A hostess desires of calling attention to the lateness of the hour, produces blankets and bed linen, and parcels them out among the guests and inquires what hour they would be called in the morning.

Such as have the means and the time, to say nothing of the persistence and energy to find their ways home, depart at once. The others, as I learned to say in America, "park" themselves about the host's home.

In a sense, then, the blackout nights have their good points for there is much merriment resulting from these war-time "socials."

Switzerland A Surprise
I vividly recall my arrival at the Swiss frontier when I set out last autumn to find my way safely back to America and the San Francisco I love. I found my way but have since returned to Berlin via Russia. It was evening when I reached the Swiss frontier. The Swiss towns and villages were ablaze with night lights.

It was like festive illumination.
Not only all the normal lights of a modern town were burning brightly but searchlights were focused on all important points of

STARS SAY—

For Thursday, August 15

SURPRISING, unpredictable, dramatic are terms best analyzing the events and circumstances of this day, judging by the lunar and mutual aspects of the higher orbs of astrological science. The element of the sudden, unforeseen and thrilling may be looked for in all phases and angles and human experience, romantic, emotional, spiritual and intellectual, which may attain high levels of creative expression. However this mysterious, occult and cryptic state of affairs is sure to be paralleled by basic developments of a purely earthly, material and practical nature not to be neglected.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year of such strange, curious, marvelous and intriguing nature as will exalt the faculties, incite dynamic thrills to the emotions, and give firm and secure foundations to the material and commonplace adventures in human experience.

It may be a memorable year, of outstanding critical situations to be settled. Use good judgment as well as rich and dependable higher guidance. Balance the practical and the abstruse.

A child born on this day should be practical, steady, trustworthy and industrious despite a high degree of spirituality, mysticism, emotionalism, with vague and in-tangible urges for transcendental expression. Drama, art, science, romance and adventure offer lofty fields for expression.

STARS SAY—

For Thursday, August 15

SURPRISING, unpredictable, dramatic are terms best analyzing the events and circumstances of this day, judging by the lunar and mutual aspects of the higher orbs of astrological science. The element of the sudden, unforeseen and thrilling may be looked for in all phases and angles and human experience, romantic, emotional, spiritual and intellectual, which may attain high levels of creative expression. However this mysterious, occult and cryptic state of affairs is sure to be paralleled by basic developments of a purely earthly, material and practical nature not to be neglected.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year of such strange, curious, marvelous and intriguing nature as will excite the faculties, incite dynamic thrills to the emotions, and give firm and secure foundations to the material and commonplace adventures in human experience. It may be a memorable year, of outstanding critical situations to be settled. Use good judgment as well as rich and dependable higher guidance. Balance the practical and the abstract.

A child born on this day should be practical, steady, trustworthy and industrious despite a high degree of spirituality, mysticism, emotionalism, with vague and intangible urges for transcendental expression. Drama, art, science, romance and adventure offer lofty fields for expression.

Dinner Guests Furnish Toothbrushes In Berlin

BERLIN, August 15—In Berlin it is now the fashion, if not the necessity, to bring a toothbrush along when calling on friends for the evening. The more thorough type of guest brings an extra blanket, and perhaps a pair of pajamas.

For in the blackout nights there is the greatest difficulty in finding one's way home, and it is next to impossible to obtain transportation in the later hours.

I had an unusual experience recently after I returned from America to Germany via Tokio. This occurred when I had dinner with some men friends at a downtown restaurant.

They had their toothbrushes with them. I did not know that when we dined long in Otto Horcher's restaurant on the Unter den Linden. I had been away so many months I had forgotten the blackout restrictions.

The Hour Became Late

While we enjoyed the lobster and the delicious Rhine wine and ate roast veal and tipped an old Burgundy, and Otto topped things off with champagne after the crepes Suzette, I gave no thought to my escorts' plight.

Of course, they took me home to the Charlottenburg, and then I perceived there was no means for them to get clear across the city to their own habitats, and it is next to impossible to prowl through the darkened streets for such a distance, flashlights being permitted only to spot an address or find a path around a street obstruction.

What else could I do but ask the men to stay?

I had no accommodations for them, so one can imagine the amazement of my maid next morning upon finding two gentlemen asleep in my drawing-room.

But such is social life in Berlin these days, or nights rather.

Berlin Not Gloomy

There is still much hilarity, much chatting and evening cards, and still places for most excellent foods. Nor is there any let-up in the gatherings of the women-folk who adore to talk to someone just returned from the United States. German, in fact all Continental women, are avidly interested in "what America thinks of us."

I learned soon I was not the first to start this sort of hospitality in Berlin. It is the regular social procedure now. A hostess desirous of calling attention to the lateness of the hour, produces blankets and bed linen, and parcels them out among the guests and inquires what hour they would be called in the morning.

Such as have the means and the time, to say nothing of the persistence and energy to find their ways home, depart at once. The others, as I learned to say in America, "park" themselves about the host's home.

In a sense, then, the blackout nights have their good points for there is much merriment resulting from these war-time "socials."

Switzerland a Surprise

I vividly recall my arrival at the Swiss frontier when I set out last autumn to find my way safely back to America and the San Francisco I love. I found my way but have since returned to Berlin via Russia. It was evening when I reached the Swiss frontier. The Swiss towns and villages were ablaze with night lights.

It was like festive illumination. Not only all the normal lights of a modern town were burning brightly but searchlights were focused on all important points of public transportation and other searchlights cut the skies ceaselessly.

This was done so that military plane pilots of the warring peoples might be able to recognize neutral territory. It is not a strange world? Blackout, and gleaming towns.

One seeks protection by blackout, the other by intense light. And the whole of it is called "Europe."

PREDICTS WAR AFTERMATH

WACO, Tex.—If Hitler and Mussolini win the present European war, the "totos" may be able, if they care to, to gain economic and political control of the South American republics. The opinion is that of Dr. James I. Culbert, visiting geography professor at Baylor University. He explains that if Germany gains control of the European economy, Hitler would have control over the markets to which South America must sell her goods.

Radcliff, McCrady Report Confessions Of Fayette Man, Housekeeper

Solution to a wave of bad-check passing in Cincinnati came late Wednesday when Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Police Chief William McCrady arrested James Allen Chandler, 58, R. F. D. New Holland, Fayette County, and his thirty-five-year-old housekeeper, Pearl Blanton.

The arrests came after more than three weeks of investigation which took the local officers over 250 miles of Pickaway and neighboring counties, questioning witnesses and possible suspects.

In Sheriff Radcliff's office Wednesday, both Chandler and his housekeeper confessed having cashed with Cincinnati merchants ten checks totaling more than $100. Chandler told Sheriff Radcliff that his housekeeper had written all the checks and had cashed two of them. He said that he had cashed the other eight himself. Charges of forgery will be filed against both persons sometime Thursday, the sheriff said.

First substantial clues in the case were obtained when Miss Blanton entered a local store and attempted to cash a check. The local merchant, suspecting her, followed her to her automobile and obtained the license number. The case neared completion Tuesday night when Sheriff Radcliff and deputies and Chief McCrady questioned suspects until 1:30 a. m. Wednesday.

Four Cincinnati merchants identified Chandler and Miss Blanton as having cashed forged checks at their stores. Merchandise purchased with the checks and found in possession of the two also tended to clinch the case against them, authorities said.

Although Sheriff Radcliff stated that the two may have been involved in similar acts in neighboring towns, he said that he believed the cases here was closed. Both he and Chief McCrady praised the actions of the local merchant who obtained the automobile license number leading to the capture, and added that in the future they would be grateful for the cooperation of the city merchants.

Among stores which reported receiving checks from the pair were Joffe's, August 3; G. C. Murphy Co., August 3; Merit Shoe Store, August 3; Clarence Wolf, October 7, 1939; Western Auto Supply, June 30, 1939; Economy Shoe Store, August 3; I. W. Kinsey, July 27; Harpster and Yost, August 3; J. C. Penney Co., September 23, 1939.

Judges Named for Big Nail Keg Derby Friday

Three judges have been appointed to be in charge of the annual Nail Keg Derby, sponsored by The Daily Herald, to be conducted Friday at 2 p. m. on the Pickaway Street hill. They are Frank A. Lynch, Delos H. Marcy and Dan McClain.

WPA recreation department officials said Thursday that many entries have been received, and that numerous boys of the city and county have built contraptions, but have not entered and probably will not do so until the hour for the first qualifying event.

Winners of the various heats will receive theatre ticket prizes, while the grand winners will receive merchandise orders of a total value of $12.50. The winner of the distance event will be given a $5 merchandise order, while the speed event first and second place winners will receive $5 and $2.50 respectively in merchandise.

A large crowd is expected to attend the Nail Keg Derby, which last year saw the street lined from top to bottom with enthusiastic spectators. Vehicles of all kinds have been put on wheels, and the event promises to be an entertaining and a thrilling one.

For the first time, a ramp will be used to start the vehicles down the hill, no pushing being necessary this year.

According to the laws of Minnesota, every railroad station in the state must bear the name of the town, if any.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

local color on its celebrated native son have found Frank Wilkie, uncle of the GOP standard bearer, to be the best source of information about him.

Uncle Frank is a husky retired steel worker who looks a great deal like his nephew. He is Catholic, former member of the Elwood City Council and a few years ago was an unsuccessful Democratic candidate for Mayor. He explains the one "I" spelling of his name by saying that it is spelled both ways in the family.

According to Frank, the founder of the Wilkie clan in the U. S. was William Josef Wilkie, a German Catholic, who migrated to northern Indiana near the middle of the last century. His sons, Herman Wilkie and Paul Wilkie, also born in Germany, changed their names when they entered a Methodist College at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Herman, the Republican candidate's father, married a Methodist and changed to that faith. The father was a successful and highly respected lawyer and his mother, a very talented woman, was the first of her sex to be admitted to the Indiana bar.

Although Wendell Wilkie was born and reared in Elwood and the little town is in a high fever of excitement over his fame and the acceptance ceremony, a few months ago it was quite different.

Jim Carr, member of the Republican State Committee, laughingly tells the story that several weeks before the Philadelphia convention he got a hunch that Wilkie might be nominated and went to the Elwood Chamber of Commerce with the suggestion that the town start boosting Wilkie for President.

"Wendell Wilkie," languidly inquired the Chamber of Commerce functionary, "who's he?"

Today, pictures of the hometown hero are on every lamppost and in every window. The cost of the ceremony will run around $50,000. Six hundred uniformed state police and several hundred plain-clothesmen from neighboring cities will handle the crowd. Only 75,000 will be able to get within seeing distance of the speakers' platform. The remainder of the 200,000 who are expected to attend will follow the proceedings through an extensive loud speaker system.

BACHELOR CHAMPIONS CHILDREN

The Congressman who is leading the fight to provide U. S. havens for British refugee children has no children of his own. However, although a bachelor, 37-year-old Representative Tom Hennings, of Mo., has long been a champion of youngsters.

For years he was St. Louis director of the "Big Brothers" organization and was instrumental in providing recreation centers and camps for underprivileged children.

"I guess that's what led me to join Marshall Field, Barry Birmingham, (crusading young publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal) and others who are trying to do something for these unfortunate European kids," Hennings explained. "It just isn't the American way to stand by and let them be killed by bombs when we have a big free country over here to shelter them."

Gangling, good-natured and a one-time Cornell track star, Hennings has found enthusiasm for his bill in unexpected quarters.

The other day, riding to his office in a taxicab, the driver recognized him and began firing a volley of questions about the legislation. Surprised at this interest, Hennings asked the cabman about it.

"I want to get the dope," was the reply. "My wife and I have applied for one of these kids. We've got a little place with a big yard and there's no reason why it shouldn't be used. It just isn't right that those kids should be bombed."

Solution to a wave of bad-check passing in Circleville came late Wednesday when Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Police Chief William McCrady arrested James Allen Chandler, 58, R. F. D. New Holland, Fayette County, and his thirty-five-year-old housekeeper, Pearl Blanton.

The arrests came after more than three weeks of investigation which took the local officers over 250 miles of Pickaway and neighboring counties, questioning witnesses and possible suspects.

In Sheriff Radcliff's office Wednesday, both Chandler and his housekeeper confessed having cashed with Circleville merchants ten checks totaling more than $100. Chandler told Sheriff Radcliff that his housekeeper had written all the checks and had cashed two of them. He said that he had cashed the other eight himself. Charges of forgery will be filed against both persons sometime Thursday, the sheriff said.

First substantial clues in the case were obtained when Miss Blanton entered a local store and attempted to cash a check. The local merchant, suspecting her, followed her to her automobile and obtained the license number. The case neared completion Tuesday night when Sheriff Radcliff and deputies and Chief McCrady questioned suspects until 1:30 a. m. Wednesday.

Four Circleville merchants identified Chandler and Miss Blanton as having cashed forged checks at their stores. Merchandise purchased with the checks and found in possession of the two also tended to clinch the case against them, authorities said.

Although Sheriff Radcliff stated that the two may have been involved in similar acts in neighboring towns, he said that he believed the cases here was closed. Both he and Chief McCrady praised the actions of the local merchant who obtained the automobile license number leading to the capture, and added that in the future they would be grateful for the cooperation of the city merchants.

Among stores which reported receiving checks from the pair were Joffe's, August 3; G. C. Murphy Co., August 3; Merit Shoe Store, August 3; Clarence Wolf, October 7, 1939; Western Auto Supply, June 30, 1939; Economy Shoe Store, August 3; I. W. Kinsey, July 27; Harpster and Yost, August 3; J. C. Penney Co., September 23, 1939.

Judges Named for Big Nail Keg Derby Friday

Three judges have been appointed to be in charge of the annual Nail Keg Derby, sponsored by The Daily Herald, to be conducted Friday at 2 p. m. on the Pickaway Street hill. They are Frank A. Lynch, Delos H. Marcy and Dan McClain.

WPA recreation department officials said Thursday that many entries have been received, and that numerous boys of the city and county have built contraptions, but have not entered and probably will not do so until the hour for the first qualifying event.

Winners of the various heats will receive theatre ticket prizes, while the grand winners will receive merchandise orders of a total value of $12.50. The winner of the distance event will be given a $5 merchandise order, while the speed event first and second place winners will receive $5 and $2.50 respectively in merchandise.

A large crowd is expected to attend the Nail Keg Derby, which last year saw the street lined from top to bottom with enthusiastic spectators. Vehicles of all kinds have been put on wheels, and the event promises to be an entertaining and a thrilling one.

For the first time, a ramp will be used to start the vehicles down the hill, no pushing being necessary this year.

local color on its celebrated native son have found Frank Wilkie, uncle of the GOP standard bearer, to be the best source of information about him.

Uncle Frank is a husky retired steel worker who looks a great deal like his nephew. He is Catholic, former member of the Elwood City Council and a few years ago was an unsuccessful Democratic candidate for Mayor. He explains the one "I" spelling of his name by saying that it is spelled both ways in the family.

According to Frank, the founder of the Wilkie clan in the U. S. was William Josef Wilkie, a German Catholic, who migrated to northern Indiana near the middle of the last century. His sons, Herman Wilkie and Paul Wilkie, also born in Germany, changed their names when they entered a Methodist College at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Herman, the Republican candidate's father, married a Methodist and changed to that faith. The father was a successful and highly respected lawyer and his mother, a very talented woman, was the first of her sex to be admitted to the Indiana bar.

Although Wendell Wilkie was born and reared in Elwood and the little town is in a high fever of excitement over his fame and the acceptance ceremony, a few months ago it was quite different.

Jim Carr, member of the Republican State Committee, laughingly tells the story that several weeks before the Philadelphia convention he got a hunch that Wilkie might be nominated and went to the Elwood Chamber of Commerce with the suggestion that the town start boosting Wilkie for President.

"Wendell Wilkie," languidly inquired the Chamber of Commerce functionary, "who's he?"

Today, pictures of the hometown hero are on every lamppost and in every window. The cost of the ceremony will run around $50,000. Six hundred uniformed state police and several hundred plain-clothesmen from neighboring cities will handle the crowd. Only 75,000 will be able to get within seeing distance of the speakers' platform. The remainder of the 200,000 who are expected to attend will follow the proceedings through an extensive loud speaker system.

BACHELOR CHAMPIONS CHILDREN

The Congressman who is leading the fight to provide U. S. havens for British refugee children has no children of his own. However, although a bachelor, 37-year-old Representative Tom Hennings, of Mo., has long been a champion of youngsters.

For years he was St. Louis director of the "Big Brothers" organization and was instrumental in providing recreation centers and camps for underprivileged children.

"I guess that's what led me to join Marshall Field, Barry Bingham, (crusading young publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal) and others who are trying to do something for these unfortunate European kids," Henning explained. "It just isn't the American way to stand by and let them be killed by bombs when we have a big free country over here to shelter them."

Gangling, good-natured and a one-time Cornell track star, Hennings has found enthusiasm for his bill in unexpected quarters.

The other day, riding to his office in a taxicab, the driver recognized him and began firing a volley of questions about the legislation. Surprised at this interest, Hennings asked the cabman about it.

"I want to get the dope," was the reply. "My wife and I have applied for one of these kids. We've got a little place with a big yard and there's no reason why it shouldn't be used. It just isn't right that those kids should be bombed."
